

Raffles Water Polo

One team. One dream. One family.

Introduction

The first thing to know is that while a few sports claim to be the 'sport of kings', water polo officially has the royal seal of approval.

The Duke of Cambridge himself is a fan of the sport and played at university and at national level for Scotland.

The sport combines speed and strength, as well as teamwork and a high level of fitness. One outfield player can cover up to 3 kilometre in one game alone!

Last but definitely not least, it is also a very enjoyable game to play and watch.

Why you should join Water Polo

Here at Raffles Water Polo, we believe in inculcating life values such as resilience, responsibility and camaraderie into our players as they improve on their craft.

We also consider ourselves as one big family, all the way from year 1 to year 6.

You can ask anyone, water polo is one of the games where you will have the most fun playing.

Besides, before the current pandemic, we had overseas trip almost every year. In fact, we were supposed to go to China last year. These overseas trips will be the highlights of your time in Raffles if you join us. Friendships will be made, brotherships would be forged, you will feel at home with us as we will be your second family, picking you up when you fall and supporting you when you are doing well.
